Cannabis cultivation, processing and sale are handled differently than other industrial processes which means that as legalization of cannabis becomes more prevalent, the need to know how to apply the code will be valuable for the building safety community to know. Topics in this course include building, fire, mechanical, plumbing, energy, and electrical code requirements, different types of facilities and a checklist for plan review inspection.

This Course is in a Virtual Training Room: This type of online classroom allows you to see and hear the instructor and classroom and they will be able to see and hear you. This is not a web session with voice over.
